Winter Carnival Starts Friday Bigger and Better than Ever!

TWO DOG TEAMS ADDED TO LIST OF ATTRACTIONS

The stage is set and tomorrow will witness the opening of one of the biggest and most enjoyable festival occasions to be given anywhere in the north this winter—the Winter Sports Carnival. From the time the orchestra at the Carnival ball begins its first for trot at the School gym, Friday night until late Sunday night there will be something doing all the time.

Those at the head of the parade committee say that that feature is going to be a hum-dinger. Watch for the triumphal entry of the winter queen and the many floats headed by Grayling band. Deck out in winter costumes and join in the festive occasion.

Balloting for queens is going on and competition is getting keen. There are many entrants and the interest is widespread. The five having the highest number of votes, popular choice, will become candidates for the honor of queen of the carnival. Final selection will be made by impartial judges at the Queen ball Friday night at the School gym, which will begin at 8:00 p. m.

Dog Teams to Enter Parade
An added attraction, that was secured since our last publication, is two dog teams, hitched to long sleds. These are regular sled dogs, trained to haul mail across the Straits of Mackinaw. Each team is capable of hauling a load of one and a half ton. They will appear in the parade representing two of our business houses. After the parade they will carry passengers across Lake Margrethe and return. This is certain to become a headline attraction.

Of course there will be an ice throne for the queen and her court and the former will be crowned with full coronation ceremonies. The real beauty of this scene can hardly be portrayed by the photographer; one must be present to view it at its best. The queen will be seated in a regal chair of splendor, and surrounding the throne will be her ladies in waiting, all regaled in winter costumes, smiling and attractive. We would imagine Amos saying "Hot Dog" while Andy would be in another "jam." Cameras will click while everyone smiles and there will be only happiness in the air.

Ceremonies over, there will be coasting down the swift toboggan slides—a mile a minute. Others will ski; snowshoes; skate; ride behind the huskies on a trip across the lake; fish thru the ice; or perhaps sit on the side lines looking on. And we understand there will be places to play bridge while the youngsters under 70 enjoy the sports.

Lumberjacks vs. Gaylord Indies
Not the least of the attractions of carnival week will be the basket ball game between the Grayling Lumberjacks and the Gaylord Indies—semi-professional teams. Both teams are playing fast ball and the crowd is certain to get some high class entertainment in that line. This will be held at the school gym on Saturday night, Feb. 7th, beginning at 8:00 o'clock with a preliminary game between the Grayling Fliers and Night-Hawks. Big game at 9:00 o'clock.

Sunday afternoon there will be the most thrilling contests ever witnessed in winter sports. Toboggans will compete for speed records; and there will be ski and snowshoe races. Anton Kangas and "Pete the Finn" will take their daring slides down the icy toboggan tracks to see who can make the quickest trip. Either trip would be fast enough for almost everyone else. And too these men will ski over Lake Margrethe behind airplanes. And above the sky will resound with the humming of airplanes.

And nobody will want to miss the "Lumberjack" feed that will be put on by Pete and Paul Lovely, well known camp cooks, at the Civilian Mess hall at the reservation. The mess will be ready for serving beginning at 11:00 a. m. Saturday and continue right thru to the finish of the carnival. Price only 50 cents.

Outsiders Looking Forward to Carnival

Everywhere outside of Grayling there seems to be a stirring enthusiasm about the coming carnival. There seems to be a general getting-together of out-doorists with plans for attending the carnival. Everyone who knows anything about Grayling knows that we don't do things by halves and that when we put on a carnival that it is going to be a big success. And there seems to be a spirit of cooperation too by our outside friends everywhere. For the past week there have been sent out hundreds of posters and messages until now just about every part of the state know that there is something doing in Grayling February 6, 7 and 8.

A good example of the way the carnival is being received by outsiders is an article written by Finney and published in last Sunday's edition of the Bay City Times. Here it is:

Hanging conspicuously in the editorial rooms of The Daily Times is a poster announcing the winter carnival to be held in Grayling, Feb. 6, 7 and 8.

Here's a chance for Bay City folks to have a good time and incidentally to show our northern neighbors that we are glad to reciprocate for their splendid co-operation shown during our water carnival.

Grayling has nearly everything for outdoor sports that Switzerland has except the Swiss cheese and by golly, if you meet up with some of the good folks that I met up there last year you won't mind missing the cheese.

The slide down the toboggan carries you at a clip of perhaps 100 miles per.

WINTER SCENES IN STORE WINDOWS

CLEVER EXHIBITIONS OF WINTER SPORTS

Even here in the Capital City of Winter Sports there has never before been such an array of store windows depicting winter sports scenes. One may go up one side of Main street and down the other and then on the side streets and he will find almost every business place with some kind of windows. And there are a lot of exceptionally clever plans nicely worked out.

There has been so much merit displayed that it would hardly be fair to mention a few without describing each and every display window and that would be impossible in the brief time before going to press.

We wish to remind our readers that they shouldn't miss seeing every window in town. It is worth anyone's time to make the rounds. And tell your friends not to miss this treat. The merchants that present special winter sports displays are as follows:

Burrows Market.
Connie's Grocery.
Avalanche Office.
Peterson's Jewelry Store.
Corwin Auto Sales.
Alfred Hanson Garage.
Mac & Gidley drug store.
Peterson's grocery.
Hanson Hardware.
Sorenson's Cigar store.
Sorenson's Furniture store.
Sorenson's Barber shop.
Collen's restaurant.
Hanson's restaurant.
Grayling Mercantile Co.
Cowell's Barber shop.
Nick's grocery.
Michigan Public Service Co.
Kraus Dry Goods store.
Grayling Hardware.
De to $1 Store.
A. & P. Store.
Central Drug store.
Olson's Barber shop and Beauty Parlor.

No doubt there will be others to put on special sports window displays. This is one of the interesting features of carnival week.

FIVE LEADERS IN QUEEN CONTEST

The committee of the Board of Trade counted the ballots Wednesday night, cast for the selection of five candidates for the honors of queen of the winter carnival. The result of the ballot is, in alphabetical order, as follows:

Fern Chalker.
Loretta Sorenson.
Jean Thorne.
Gertrude Trudeau.
Betty Welsh.

Competent, disinterested judges will elect one of this group for queen. This will be done at the Carnival ball at the School gym Friday night. The one who is lucky enough to be chosen will reign as queen of the carnival for the next two days. This is a fine honor and one that any young lady would gladly welcome. We believe the voters have done their part well and are giving the judges a hard task, for certainly any one of the five selected would be worthy of the honor of being queen.

NOTES

Thos. Cassidy of Shoppenagons Inn reports a large list of registrants for hotel rooms and is looking for a full house for Friday and Saturday nights. One party of 15 from Midland has made reservations and there will be many other cities well represented. Chief Nevitt of Bay City says there is going to be a big mob here from his town. And so it goes from all over the state. Good weather is the only uncertainty; everything else is an assured success.

Have you heard the broadcast about the carnival from Detroit at 6 to 6:15 p. m. over WJR? Listen in tonight.

Chief Nevitt, athletic director of Bay City schools will referee the basketball game Saturday night between Gaylord Indies and Grayling Lumberjacks.

The sports committee has built a large snow fort at Lake Margrethe which is called "Fort Shoppenagons."

Five airplanes are scheduled to arrive in Grayling from Bay City at noon Saturday. They will use Lake Margrethe for a landing field and take part in the winter carnival exhibits.

T. F. Marston, secretary North-Eastern Michigan Development bureau and secretary East-Michigan Tourist association, and Glenn MacDonald, sports editor Bay City Times, will act as judges for the queen contest at the carnival ball Friday night.

27 ENTER SNOWMAN CONTEST

The following 27 youngsters have made entries in the Snowman contest:

Leo Lovely, Frederick Moggo.
Walter Skingley, Eva Swanson.
Bernice Palmer, Mary-Montour.
Edna Johnson, Helen McLeod.
Grant Giffin, Dorothy Morris.
Percy Giffin, Patricia Montour.
Jack Hull, June Morris.
Dorothy Wakeley, Junior Nelson.
Jean Wakeley, Lois Parker.
Richard Brady, Milford Parker.
Walter Buck, Phyllis Parker.
Gerald Neil, Teddy Nelson.
John Henry Peterson, Nina Lovely.
Barton LeRoy Wakeley.

The entries closed Wednesday evening, and the contestants must have their exhibits at the Avalanche office not later than 10:00 o'clock Saturday morning so they can be judged before the parade.

GOODFELLOWSHIP CLUB NOTES

The Goodfellowship club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Ernest Larsen Monday evening.

After the business session the ladies mended and darned clothes for a needy family while Mrs. Chas. Tromble read an article on "The Invisible Government."

2 CANDIDATES FOR SCHOOL COM.

1ST SPRING PRIMARY TO COST
TAX PAYER NEARLY $400

Petitions for nomination for the office of school commissioner were filed by John W. Payne, the present incumbent, and LaVere Cushman. The date for filing closed at 4:00 p. m. January 27th.

Mr. Payne is superintendent of Frederic school which he has successfully conducted for the past ten years. During the past 8 years he has also been the commissioner of schools of Crawford county and chairman of the county teachers examining board. Mr. Cushman is principal of Grayling High school and coach of the basketball team. This position he has held successfully for the past four years.

Both men are well qualified for the position of school commissioner. Further than the above we believe they need no further introduction to the public on the part of this newspaper. The campaign for nomination is now on. The result no doubt will be close. Primary election day is Monday, March 2.

This is the first time in the history of Crawford County that we have had to conduct a primary election in the spring. On former occasions there has been but one candidate for that office and under such condition no primary election is required. With the filing of two petitions for the office of commissioner there is now a contest on and an election must be held. County Clerk Axel Peterson says that this election will cost the county in the neighborhood of $400. Besides that the townships will have to conduct the election, thus adding to the cost. There will be primary registration and election notices that are required by law to be published. Both men filed petitions in good faith and the election should be carried.

Michellann Memorial Church

John Wilfred Greenwood, Minister

Lincoln Sunday, February 8, 1931

No true American forgets to remember with honor and with reverence America's greatest character—Abraham Lincoln.

We invite you to attend.
11:00 a. m. Subject: "If Lincoln were alive in 1931."
7:30 p. m. Subject: An interpretation—Markham's poem—"The Man of the People."

Character in Public Life

If Lincoln's life and service mean anything they reflect the glory and the beauty of Character in Public Life. He would sooner have been RIGHT than be President. It is a happy relief to look upon a Lincoln who towers above us in his simplicity of life and transparency of character, and humbleness of heart.

The commemoration of his birth finds us repeating the words: "God give us men! A time like this demands

Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;

Men whom the lust of office does not kill;

Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy;

Men who possess opinions and a will; Men who have honor; men who will not lie;

Men who can stand before a demagogue

And slam his treacherous flatterings without winking!"

Hate and Anger

It is difficult to avoid being angry sometimes; but hate, continued over a long period, is definitely wrong. If for no other reason than that it creates a poison in your own system and upsets your health, you should let the feeling die.—Exchange.

GIVE DINNER PARTY DOWN THE RIVER

Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Clippert and Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Keyport were hosts to a number of their friends at a wonderful dinner down the river on Tuesday evening. The guests went down in cars and their appetites were whetted for the excellent meal that awaited them.

Besides the hosts the guests included Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jarmin, Prof. and Mrs. R. R. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Milnes, Mr. and Mrs. Lorane Sparkes, Mr. and Mrs. LaVere Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson and the guest of honor, Mrs. Benjamin Jerome of Syracuse, N. Y.

HOME TOWN PAPERS HOLD RECORD MEET

More than 200 editors of Michigan's home town newspapers gathered in Lansing last week for the sixtieth annual conference of the Michigan Press Association. It was the largest convention in the history of the newspaper group.

Officers elected to serve the Press Association during the coming year include: George Averill, Birmingham Eccentric, president; Elton R. Eaton, Northville Record, vice-president; Herbert A. Wood, Bangor Advance, secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the executive committee, as appointed by the officers, are: Verne J. Brown, Ingham County News, Mason; Rollo Mosher, Wayland Globe; Claude D. Riley, Ontonagon Herald; D. E. Matheson, Roscommon Herald; and A. Van Kovering, Zeeland Record.

A high light of the convention program was the annual banquet, held on Thursday evening, January 28. Four hundred gathered for this function, with the state legislature and state officials attending as guests of the Press Association.

Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker, former governor Fred W. Green; Luren Dickinson, lieutenant governor; Fred Ming, speaker of the House; President Robert S. Shaw, of M. S. C.; and A. Van Kovering, president of the M. P. A., appeared on the banquet program, along with Dean Gordon J. Laing, of Chicago University.

Joseph A. Sturgeon, formerly editor of the Delta Reporter, of Gladstone, is serving as the new field secretary of the Press Association, succeeding Len W. Feighner of Nashville.

WHILE IN LANSING

It was our privilege when in attendance at the 61st annual convention of the Michigan Press Association at Lansing last week to drop in and have a chat with Auditor General O. B. Fuller. That grand old man, in spite of the fact that he is unable to get around without his wheelchair, is always on the job. He is called the "watch-dog of the treasury" and by his keen ability and indefatigable attendance to duty, has saved hundreds of thousands of dollars of the tax payers' money. Mr. Fuller has a giant intellect, yet he is one of the most kindly men we have ever met, and always meets one with that friendly smile that makes a visit to his office a pleasure. We called on Governor Brucker too but there were about twenty men and women there waiting to see him so we left a message and got out. We visited the legislature and had a pleasant chat with Representative Wm. Green. Senator Ben Carpenter was out on committee work so, same as with the Governor, we left a message. The solons that we had the privilege of talking with all speak highly of Green and Carpenter.

Another pleasant event there was an evening spent with Lieut. Russell Emerson Bates who is stationed at the military department of M. S. C. Emerson joined us in attending the annual banquet of the newspaper men Thursday night where we had the pleasure of hearing a most interesting program of speeches. Ex-governor Fred W. Green was the toastmaster. Governor Wilbur M. Brucker and Dean Gordon J. Laing, of Chicago University were among the speakers. After the banquet there was a brief visit at the pleasant home of the Bates than a session of bridge at the Hotel Kerns with a couple of brother editors. And, by-the-way, the Grayling team succeeded in nothing out their tough opponents by a narrow margin.

Our old friend and golf pal W. W. Lewis dropped around to the convention Saturday afternoon and took us out to spend the evening at his pleasant home where we enjoyed an evening with his fine family and in gossip about Grayling. Bill says he misses his old Grayling friends and has pleasant memories of some of the good times he used to have while he was here as Michigan Central station agent.

COMING

MEMORIAL BUILDING NEARLY COMPLETE

BEAUTIFUL STRUCTURE IN HARTWICK PINES PARK

What is considered among the most beautiful log structures in Michigan—the Memorial Building at Hartwick Pines State Park—will be open to the public next spring.

The building, now practically complete, was inspected recently by the Legislative Conservation Committee on their biennial junket.

Only the installation of plumbing and lighting facilities and the furniture, and the cleaning up of the surrounding grounds remains to be done before the building is finished.

Facing the great forest of pine, one of the two remaining virgin pine tracts in southern Michigan, the new structure is built entirely of logs, many of them 18 inches in diameter. The building itself is 71 feet across the face and is 46 feet wide.

At one end is a room dedicated to the memory of Major Edward E. Hartwick, and containing his war equipment and records. Adjoining, another room will contain papers, pictures and relics of the Salling-Hanson Lumber Company which once operated on the spot. Rest rooms flank the other side of the building and in the center is a hall for the accommodation of visitors. A huge fireplace has been built in this hall.

Precautions have been taken to prevent fires. The water system will be designed to give the greatest possible protection to the building.

Hartwick Pines State Park is in Crawford County seven miles north of Grayling. An officer is in charge of the park throughout the year.

GRAYLING WINS FROM ROSCOMMON AND ST. MARYS

The Grayling basket-throwers put on an exhibition of scalp-lifting for the benefit of local fans last Friday night and operated on a couple of teams from Roscommon as well as St. Mary's from Gaylord. The St. Mary's club made things the most interesting, falling by the margin of four points, 16-12. The Roscommon seconds took a bump directly on the nose, being victims of a shut-out defeat, 33 to a zero, while their regulars absorbed a 23 to 11 trimming.

Coach Cushman must have had a bent for higher mathematics as he substituted his players and juggled his lineups. The greenclads came and went and every man got a chance to show his proficiency before the battles were over and the dust had settled. And the spectators must have gone home with the impression that the locals had at least a squad of half a hundred players, each of whom appeared at least twice a game. St. Mary's with a veteran team, which made things interesting in the tournament last spring, gave Grayling a fair argument. They couldn't cope with the first string, but nevertheless were not to be taken too lightly. At half time they trailed by only a single point, but the margin widened in the second half.

Roscommon was far from difficult. Their reserves failed to negotiate a single point and only one personal kept their page in the score book from being a total blank. Meanwhile an array of Northern Lights rolled

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1931

THE BAY CITY TIMES never fails, whenever there is an opportunity, to come to bat for Grayling. All that is necessary is to let them know that there is something going to happen here and they come across with splendid publicity—the kind that money cannot buy and the kind that brings results. Their splendid newspaper covers Northeastern Michigan and, by their generosity, Grayling affairs have been liberally advertised. And besides, the citizens of that city too come forward with their boosts for their northern neighbor and they are good enough to get into our games by being in attendance. This is plainly evident when they will send their air squadron here to add to the attractions of our winter sports. All these things are not unnoticed and not forgotten. The sun shines brighter and smiles last longer when such friendliness is extended.

SPIRIT OF COOPERATION

We doubt if there is a community anywhere in Michigan where there is a better spirit of cooperation among its citizens than there is right here in Grayling. No matter what the occasion may be, everyone is ready and glad to do his part. Most people here realize that Winter Sports are promoted without profit and, in fact, at considerable cost to our merchants and other citizens. Whenever there is occasion to raise funds for this purpose they are always forthcoming, cheerfully. It cost the business men of Grayling over $500 last year to support this feature.

Now that Grayling has established a name for itself in that line of recreation, this was no time to give it up, and again our citizens have come forward with enough money to put it across. The small fees charged for rides down the toboggan slide is far from sufficient to support the enterprise, but, like a circus, it must go on just the same.

This community has every feature that could be desired for making it famous the nation over as a winter resort, as well as a summer resort. We have an attractive setting for winter sports as any region in America and it only needs further development and continued publicity to win for it further and lasting fame. This can only be made a realization by the continued loyal cooperation that has been accorded by our citizens in the past.

"I hae done, laddie," nodded the Scot with a wink. "It says fees for the green, sixpence a game, but I'm nae green."

Red Cross Rejects Proposed Federal Aid of $25,000,000 for Drought Relief and Opposition Senators Threaten a Filibuster.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

J. B. Payne, Payne said the central committee of the Red Cross had adopted two resolutions, as follows:

"That it is the sense of the central committee that the Red Cross is in a position adequately to complete the task it has undertaken in the drought stricken areas, and it hereby assumes the responsibility of completing said task without public appropriations."

"That it is the sense of the central committee that the Red Cross cannot accept the administration of the funds for general relief purposes, as provided for under the terms of the bill which has passed the senate and is now pending in the house."

Senators who upheld the senate's attempt to give the Red Cross a $25,000,000 relief appropriation rallied to the defense of that plan and, led by Robinson of Arkansas, denounced the Red Cross, President Hoover and the administration generally. They gave notice that they would filibuster against the general appropriation bills unless what they consider to be adequate relief for the drought areas is granted.

Senators who upheld the senate's attempt to give the Red Cross a $25,000,000 relief appropriation rallied to the defense of that plan and, led by Robinson of Arkansas, denounced the Red Cross, President Hoover and the administration generally. They gave notice that they would filibuster against the general appropriation bills unless what they consider to be adequate relief for the drought areas is granted.

INCREASING pressure in behalf of the plan to make immediate cash payment of bonus certificates to World War veterans was met by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon with a statement that the senate finance committee had such a payment was neither needed nor economically sound, and he more than intimated that legislation to that effect would be vetoed by the President. Both he and Undersecretary Mills told the committee that the proposed bond issue of $340,000,000 for the retirement of the 20-year bonus certificates would not only disturb government finances, but would prolong the business depression. Next day they repeated their arguments before the house ways and means committee.

THE Democrat-radical Republican coalition in the senate is still after those members of the federal power commission, Smith, Garand and Draper, and it appeared certain that Walsh's motion to take quo warranto action to oust them would be carried. The matter came up in the lower house on a motion to cut out the appropriation for their salaries, but the representatives decided the quarrel was none of their business and defeated the motion by a vote of 37 to 102.

HARRY E. ROWBOTTOM, Republican congressman from the first district of Indiana, was arrested in Evansville and placed under $10,000 bonds by United States Commissioner C. E. Harmon. He is charged with having taken $750 from Walter G. and Aaron Ayer in return for the promise of appointment of Gresham Ayer as a rural mail carrier at Rockport, Ind. Rowbottom's term in congress expires on March 4 next. He was an outstanding member of the 1920 Indiana house of representatives when the Ku Klux Klan began to show its great political influence.

The Post Office department in Washington announced on January 5 the dismissal of four postmasters and the suspension of a rural mail carrier, all in Rowbottom's district. The official statement of the department at that time said that reports prevalent in Indiana that "certain postmasters and others who were applicants for positions in the Post Office department had been paying and causing to be paid various sums of money to a congressman to obtain the appointments desired" were brought to its attention by Senators James E. Watson and Arthur Robinson.

MAJ. GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER, commander of the marine base at Quantico, Va., whose propensity for speaking his mind freely has made trouble in the past, has been talking again. This time, before the Contemporary club in Philadelphia, General Butler, according to press reports, made a speech in which he severely criticized Premier Mussolini of Italy, calling him "one of those fellows who are waiting to start another war," and declaring: "He is polishing up all the brass hats in Italy. He is getting very Roman." He also said Mussolini ran over a child with his automobile.

Mussolini cabled a flat denial of the automobile story to Italian Ambassadors.

dor de Martino, who promptly lodged a protest at the Department of State. Secretary of the Navy Adams called on General Butler for an explanation, and when this was received Secretary Stimson made a formal apology to Italy for Butler's statement. At the same time Mr. Adams ordered that the officer be tried by court martial.

SENATOR CAPPER'S joint resolution authorizing the federal farm board to make 20,000,000 bushels of the wheat it owns available for emergency relief was passed by the senate. The board's revolving fund is to be credited with the cost of the grain at prevailing prices.

HOLDING that as attorney general of the United States he has the right to pass on the professional and ethical fitness of candidates for places on the federal bench, William D. Mitchell has openly and vigorously attacked the qualifications of Ernest A. Michel of Minnesota, recommended for judicial appointment by Thomas Schall, blind senator from that state. Schall has retaliated by questioning the good taste of Mitchell's action and declaring that unless Michel is nominated the post will remain vacant.

The attorney general in this statement asserts that Michel is not qualified for a judgeship and infers that Schall's recommendation was in payment of a political debt. "President Hoover," he adds, "has raised a standard of judicial appointment in which political usefulness does not enter. He has refused repeatedly to be bent by such motives. I am sure that the people of Minnesota approve of his attitude. When it comes to judicial office they want men about whose qualifications there is not room for difference of opinion, not men appointed to pay political debts."

Senator Schall accepted the issue and replied: "I am forced to the conclusion that the attorney general displays less than good taste to say the least when he makes reference to the payment of political debts. It is an inferential insult to the people of our state to even intimate that they would consider or political expediency rather than sound qualifications and integrity in their choice of a judicial appointee."

POSSIBILITY of another controversy with Canada loomed when it was announced that the two masted auxiliary schooner Josephine K. of Nova Scotia registry, had been captured by a coast guard cutter after a five mile chase in lower New York bay and her skipper, Capt. William P. Cluett of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, killed by a shot from a one-pounder. On the schooner and on a garbage scow which was in tow of a tug and also was captured the officials found a large quantity of liquor.

After a conference in the White House, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman gave out the statement that the coast guard was performing its statutory duty in preventing smuggling.

It is regrettable the captain lost his life, but it was simply an incident in the transaction," he continued. "If I feel sure the coast guard did not fire with intention of taking life, but to prevent the runner escaping. Apparently the Canadian was violating the laws of the United States, which it is the duty of the coast guard to enforce under mandates from the congress of the United States."

Lowman said a coast guard cutter caught the run runner, transferring a cargo of liquor to a scow and a small motorboat well within the 12-mile limit and just outside New York harbor. He said the cutter isolated her pennant, whereupon the run runner tried to escape. Several warning shots were fired before the shell struck the pilot house, killing the captain and bringing the Josephine K. to a stop.

PIERRE LAVAL, only forty-seven years old, became premier of France and got together a cabinet to succeed that of M. Tardieu. It is a ministry of the right whose political complexion does not differ greatly from that of its predecessor. The radical Socialists refused to participate but politicians in Paris believed the new government would survive. Tardieu accepted the ministry of agriculture and inland the foreign affairs portfolio. Laval himself took the portfolio of the interior. The one-legged General Maginot was made minister of war, Dumont of the navy and Dumesnil of the air, while L'Hardy became minister of finance and Landry of labor. For the first time a negro is in the cabinet. He is Blaise Diagne of Senegal and is undersecretary of state for the colonies.

BEFORE he committed suicide by shooting himself at his home in Jersey City, Edward I. Edwards, former governor of New Jersey and former United States senator, wrote a note to his daughter which gave no explanation of his act. However, his family and business associates knew he had been despondent, and that he was suffering from an incurable disease, so they were less surprised than shocked. In the senate Mr. Edwards was a pioneer of the wets, though he never took a drink of liquor. In 1924 he was mentioned as a Democratic presidential possibility on a wet platform.

In 1928, Mr. Edwards was called back from the convention in Houston, Texas, by the fatal illness of his wife. Broken with sorrow, he entered his campaign for re-election and was defeated by Hamilton F. Kean. Then came financial misfortunes, a break with his lifelong friend, Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, and not long ago the death of his favorite brother, David F. Edwards. Evidently, life held nothing more for him.

WILLIAM HOHENZOLLERN, who was used to be emperor of Germany, celebrated the seventy-second anniversary of his birth on January 27 at his home of exile in Doorn, Holland. It was not a gala event and there was little of the pomp that marked the day before the World war. William attended divine services in the morning, then received the congratulations of his immediate relatives and presided at a family dinner. In the afternoon he received delegations of German monarchists, and in the evening there was a formal dinner at which the ex-emperor appeared wearing the uniform of a German field marshal and his decorations.

WHEN the king and queen of Siam pay their official visit to Washington in April they are to be provided with a residence that will have all the luxuries of a royal palace. Our government has no official home for distinguished visitors and so always borrows one when the occasion arises. This time it has accepted the offer of Larz Anderson, former ambassador to Japan, of his great castle-like house on Massachusetts avenue, and there the royal couple from the Far East and their suite will be housed. The Anderson house was used once before for foreign visitors, in 1918 by the Belgian war mission.

INVESTIGATION of the administration of law in the federal courts throughout the country is to be carried on under the supervision of a committee of which Dean Charles E. Clark of Yale law school has been appointed chairman. Plans for this study were approved by President Hoover's commission on law observance and enforcement.

ASSUMING that the MacDonald government remains in power, Great Britain is likely soon to imitate Italy in one respect, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, and his associates are planning a drive to reduce costs and help the British manufacturer to recover his supremacy in the world's export markets. The scheme proposed includes a 10 per cent cut in wages and a similar reduction in the prices of all goods and commodities.

The British working man, according to the officials, would be as well off as ever though receiving less for his work. Mr. Snowden has been sounding out the large employers on the plan, and in a letter to prominent manufacturers has intimated that the government in its next budget would set the example by making a cut of 10 per cent in the salaries of all government employees. The trade unions have been consulted and have given their approval.

CARRYING out the policy and plans of the British government, Lord Irwin, viceroy of India, decreed the unconditional release from prison of Mahatma Gandhi and his chief lieutenants, all members of the working committee of the all-India national congress. The "holy man," desiring to avoid demonstrations, did not leave the Yeravda jail until eleven o'clock at night. Clad only in a loin cloth, he took a train for Bombay, where he was met by immense crowds of adoring and rejoicing natives.

Gandhi told interviewers that he emerged from jail with an absolutely open mind unfettered by enmity and prepared to study the whole situation and the statement of Prime Minister MacDonald. He still insisted every political prisoner in India should be freed, but said he did not yet know what would be his course if the British government would not consent to this.

ALASKAN HEROINE WILL BE HONORED

Plan Statue of Angel of the Gold Rush Days.

Seattle—Loved by the hardy Alaskan prospectors and gamblers as one woman who remained "pure and white as the snow" during the gold rush days of '97 and '98, Mollie Bell will live again when her friends erect a bronze statue of her at Skagway, Alaska.

The laughing-eyed Irish lass, honored by all on the trail and in camp, was the belle of the North. She was a comrade and tender-hearted pal to the unkempt men who plunged into the wilderness to seek their fortunes.

Wooded and Lost.

One of her closest friends was "Packer Jack" Newman, who wooed and lost her. He has had a bronze image of the famed Alaska belle molded for a pedestal to be placed in a Skagway park dedicated to her memory.

Far different than the dance-hall girls, Mollie Bell was the angel of the camps, and her name is still spoken in hushed reverence by the old-timers. It was she who cared for the sick and friendless, who grubstaked prospectors, who lent a helping hand wherever she could.

Mollie went North while she was in her early twenties and opened a grub shack near Lake Bennett. "Packer Jack" met her first when he stumbled into her tent one night suffering from a frozen hand. She administered aid to him as she had to others, and a romance began.

Married Another.

"Packer Jack" became a bit too sure of himself, however, and when Mike Bartlett began showering attention on Mollie, Pack ordered her to forbid Bartlett entrance to her grub tent. Mollie married Bartlett.

Mollie gradually drifted away from her direct contact with the trail, and in 1902 she was living in Seattle with her husband. Her brief life ended in October of that year when she was shot and killed. Bartlett was acquitted of her murder when adjudged temporarily insane.

Now Mollie's going back to Alaska to take her rightful place on the Skagway trail, a perpetual reminder that there was at least one girl of the trails who was not a "dance-hall Lou."

THE MARKET BASKET

(By the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Woman's Division of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment.)

Family Food Guide

Every meal—Milk for children, bread for all.
Every day—Cereal in porridge or puddings.
Potatoes, Tomatoes (or oranges) for children. A green or yellow vegetable. A fruit or additional vegetable.
Milk for all.
Two to four times a week—Tomatoes for all. Dried beans and peas or peanuts. Eggs (especially for children). Lean meat, fish or poultry, or cheese.

Cod-liver oil is an easily available source of vitamins A and D, and is useful for adults as well as children as a supplement for diets deficient in these vitamins, such vitamin-deficient diets as will be more common this winter as a result of the employment emergency and the drought, according to Dr. Hazel Munsell, Chief of the Nutrition Studies, Section of the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

A few cents worth of cod-liver oil each day is sufficient to supplement a restricted diet so that children will grow normally and build up a resistance to rickets and tooth decay. It will give adults as well as children a greater capacity to offset infections of the eye, ear, nose and throat. This is because two of the essential vitamins, A and D, are found in cod-liver oil.

"People living on minimum food budgets are not likely to eat enough natural foods to supply these two vitamins," Doctor Munsell said. "Liver and egg yolk are probably the richest source of vitamin D, commonly known as the antirachitic vitamin. Milk and dairy products also contain it in smaller quantities. These same foods likewise supply A, the anti-infective vitamin, as do many vegetables, especially the green leafy ones. Vitamin D can not be stored in the body in quantity, so the supply must be replenished from day to day.

"Cod-liver oil is frequently referred to as 'bottled sunshine' since direct exposure of the skin to sunlight changes one of the chemicals normally present in the skin to form vitamin D. Only certain rays do this. Most places have less sunlight in winter, and winter sunlight usually has fewer of the rays that form vitamin D. This makes it doubly important to safeguard the vitamin D supply this winter.

"Many industrial workers that are now out of jobs live in cities. Consequently they do not enjoy the benefits of normal exposure to sunlight. The situation is more acute in cities than in rural districts since the unemployed gather in cities, less natural food is available, and anything which satisfies hunger must suffice. Because of this fact their diets, in all probability, lack some of the foods that contain vitamin D. All these conditions make them doubly uncertain of their supply of this essential vitamin."

Cod-liver oil doesn't take the place of calcium in the diet but it has the property of stimulating the body to make use of the calcium in the food and of phosphorus as well, Doctor Munsell pointed out. In this way it controls bone development.

Other fish oils, especially tuna, sardines, menhaden, and salmon have recently been shown to contain large amounts of vitamin D, in the order named. This makes them important even though, with the exception of salmon, they only contain small quantities of vitamin A. For this reason they can not do the double duty of cod-liver oil. The exact amount of vitamin D found in the natural oils in which canned fish are packed has not yet been determined. They are valuable, however, and the bureau urges housewives to stop feeding them to the cat and serve them to their families instead.

In Chicago and Detroit a family of five can live by the bureau's food guide for $6.46 a week, according to Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, chairman of the Woman's Division of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment, at whose request the food guide was prepared. Boston is the most expensive of the 13 cities in which the food prices were gathered. There the cost is $7.23. Other cities are as follows: Pittsburgh, Pa., $6.49; Los Angeles, California, $6.62; Kansas City, Missouri, $6.69; St. Louis, Missouri, $6.66; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, $6.79; New Orleans, Louisiana, $7.07; Atlanta, Georgia, $7.10; Charlotte, North Carolina, $7.07; New York City, $7.17; Dallas, Texas, $7.17.

A family of five, including the father, mother and three young children, should buy every week:

Flour and cereal (1 1/2 pounds of bread count as 1 pound flour) 15 to 20 lbs.
Whole milk 23 to 25 quarts
Canned unsweetened milk 23 to 25 tall cans
Potatoes 15 to 20 lbs.
Dried beans, peas, peanut butter 1 to 2 lbs.
Tomatoes, canned 3 quarts
Other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color) and inexpensive fruits 15 to 18 lbs.
Fats, such as lard, salt pork, bacon, margarine, butter, etc. 2 1/2 lbs.
Sugar and molasses 3 lbs.
Lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs 5 to 7 lbs.
Eggs (for children) 8 eggs

STRONG FRAME, STURDY BODIES IN NEW ESSEX SUPER-SIX MODELS

The front and cowl assembly of the new Essex Super Six has been rigidly reinforced and anchored more securely to the car frame, and this, combined with other new Essex developments, insures smoother, easier riding.

Steel replaces wood in the entire roof rail, providing through welding, a one-piece construction from one windshield pillar around the body to the opposite windshield pillar. The four corners of the roof are further strengthened through larger gussets at the front at roof to pillar junction and the addition of two new gussets at the rear corners. These gussets also provide means for sealing against roof leaks to the interior compartment and anchorage for strips of steel crossing the roof diagonally, providing a tension brace to the roof similar to conventional aeronautical engineering practice.

Below the rear seat cushion a new heavy stamping ties together in one unit the body sills, heel board, rear cushion seat tray and rear cross sill. Rivets replace the screws, nuts and bolts. Five pieces are supplanted by the single stamping with which the 1931 bodies are equipped.

These new Essex bodies, on the 113 inch wheelbase, give more room and greater comfort than the company has ever offered before in the popular car.

CAUGHT BIG ONE IN HATCHERY POND

For a fish hatchery overseer to catch someone in the act of trying to catch one of the institution's prize exhibition trout from a hatchery pond is enough provocation for anger, but for the poacher to calmly ask the overseer to help him "land the big one," would be a little beyond human endurance.

Claud Lydell, overseer of the Lydell Hatchery at Comstock Park was walking around the grounds when he saw unwarranted splashing in the pond in which he retained exhibition fish. Circling around the edge of the pond Lydell saw a long line extending into the water. At one end was a huge, splashing fish. At the other end and near a clump of bushes was a boy. "Hey," the boy called to Lydell, "will you help me land him? He's a whopper."

Lydell told his story to overseers of Michigan hatcheries, assembled at Lansing for a general conference of members of the Fish Division of the Conservation Department.

Unnumbered hundreds of fish are stolen every year from hatchery ponds, the Overseers said. And not all of the offenders are boys. Adults have been caught stealing hatchery fish. Frequently nets and parts of nets have been discovered in the ponds after the approach of a hatchery employee had frightened away the poacher.

It is not only the big fish that are stolen, according to the overseers. Four and five inch fingerling trout have been taken in large quantities.

Complete day and night patrolling of all hatchery ponds is a financial and physical impossibility. Many of the ponds are at considerable distances from the hatchery buildings.

One hatchery was successful in keeping its fish by burning "bombs" lights along the banks. It is claimed that the lights disturbed poaching; frightened away herons and other predators and attracted fish-food in the way of flies and bugs.

Variation in Rainfall

The largest annual rainfall of record was 8.05 inches in Assam, India, and the smallest .05 of an inch in the West African coast. ## Personal Prejudice

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Bascom had a letter in his hand when he walked into my office. An unopened letter it was, too, but it was evident from the handwriting and from the address in the corner from whom it had come.

"I have a letter from Anderson this morning," he said, holding out the envelope. I haven't read it yet, but I know even before I do so that it will make me mad."

Bascom had a prejudice against Anderson. He disliked the man, no matter in what role he was playing and he had no special reason for doing so. It was just that whatever Anderson did was wrong in Bascom's eyes.

Clayton didn't like butter, or at least he said he didn't. The mere mention of the word would give Clayton nausea. He could scarcely sit at the table comfortably if the butter plate was in sight. If you told him that something he was eating contained butter he would push back his plate and call the meal finished. And yet if he were not told of the presence of butter he would eat, with relish, anything that contained it. It was not the taste of butter, or the odor of it, which he disliked—it was just the idea and for this absurd prejudice of his he could give no adequate excuse.

There came to me in the mail this morning a list of fifty words representing organizations, ideas, and nationalities.

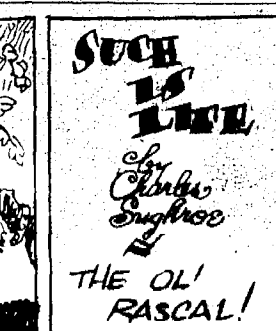

"Read through the list of words and phrases tested below," I am told. "Consider each one not more than five seconds. If it calls up a disagreeable association, cross it out."

I was a little surprised—I was even annoyed to discover how many of these words called up distasteful and displeasing reactions in my mind. I know very little of socialism, for example, and should have neither an agreeable nor a disagreeable emotional reaction to the word, but its effect on me is distinctly unpleasant and is so without reasonable foundation. I am thoroughly opposed to war and yet "disarmament" gives me a sensation of repugnance.

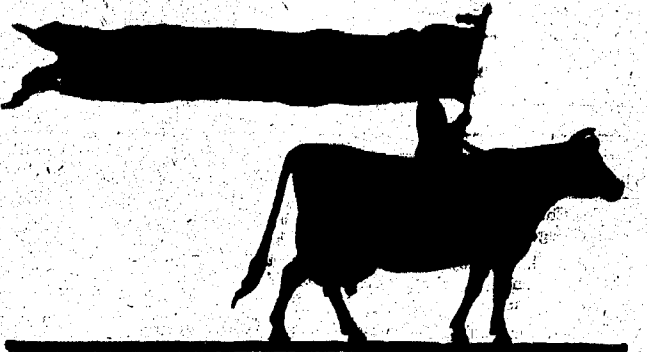

Skelton has a strong prejudice against secret societies. He never belonged to one; he knows nothing about their rituals or their serious purposes; he could not bring up a single instance, if called upon to do so, which would throw discredit upon one of these organizations or its members, but still he doesn't like 'em he says, and so when his boy went to college Skelton's only piece of advice to his young heir was not to join anything.

Prejudice, I suppose, is pretty largely the result of ignorance. If we knew people and places and organizations and institutions better we would have fewer prejudices. Reading and travel and association with people and things are sure to break down our prejudices and make us more considerate and broader minded. If some one could once get Skelton into a secret society he might be made to see how simple and harmless most of them are. (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

AGRICULTURAL NOTES

A $5 razorback hog in 100 days can destroy southern pine seedlings worth $100.

Red squill is a bulb something like an onion. Ground to powder, it is deadly to rats and relatively harmless to other animals and to birds.

Veterinary medicine is one profession that is not overcrowded today, and the schools are not graduating as many veterinarians as are likely to be needed.

Wild life is valuable. In the eastern part of the country, it has a meat and fur value of about 14 cents an acre; birds are worth more than 28 cents an acre as destroyers of insects and other pests.

Since 1917 State and Federal agencies have slaughtered more than two-thirds of all the cattle in the country infected with tuberculosis.

Bone meal is a very good commercial fertilizer for lawns. It is safe to apply and gives fairly quick results. Apply it in late winter, or early spring, using from 10 to 15 pounds to 1,000 square feet.

Before killing poultry, hang the birds up by their feet to insure complete bleeding. A fowl that is bled improperly has a dark, reddened skin, which detracts from its appearance. Such a fowl is likely to spoil rapidly. Cut the jugular vein in the neck first and then pierce the brain, passing the knife through the opening in the roof of the mouth and into the brain.

Geese can be raised successfully in small numbers and at a profit on farms where there is plenty of grass or pasture land with a natural water supply. Geese are the closest grazers known and both mature geese and partially grown goslings will get their entire living from good pasture when it is available. Moist pasture land makes especially good grazing. Young and old geese are very hardy and are rarely affected by disease or insect pests.

A lubricating-oil emulsion spray applied in the dormant period is the most effective way to control the San Jose scale on deciduous trees, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This pest sucks the sap of the trees; consequently lead arsenate and other stomach poisons are of no use. To be effective, the spray must hit every side of the trunk, limbs, branches, and twigs. Do not apply ordinary lubricating oil emulsion in the growing season, says the department, as it may defoliate the trees. This is especially true of peach trees.

Experiments by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to discover the effects of various fertilizer ingredients on building up chlorophyll (green coloring matter in plants) show that fertilizers high in nitrogen readily cause plants to become a very deep green. Potash which has pronounced effects on some phases of plant growth, has relatively small influence on the "greening" of plants, says the department. A fertilizer high in phosphorus seems to produce plants with more chlorophyll than those fertilized chiefly with potash and with less chlorophyll than those mainly with nitrogen.

BUCKS LOCK HORNS

Heads of two buck deer, their antlers firmly interlocked, were found by Frank Knowles, Ludington, conservation officer, in the woods of Mason County. The deer had apparently starved to death when they were unable to untangle their antlers following a fight.

Instances of bucks locking their horns during fights are relatively common in Michigan. A year ago a game refuge keeper found two bucks in this condition, but saved the lives of the animals by breaking the antlers with a club.

TO TAG FINGERLINGS

Manufacture of a miniature metal tag will make possible during the coming summer, the tagging of fingerling trout.

Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, Director of the Institute for Fisheries Research of the Department of Conservation has announced that a miniature tag will be on the market next spring, enabling the expansion of trout tagging experiments, carried on in this state for the past several years.

The new tag will be of such construction that it will not injure fish as small as three inches long, Dr. Hubbs said.

It has been desired to tag fingerlings ever since trout tagging operations began, but experimenters lacked the proper tags.

It is expected that the Institute will be able to determine with tagged fingerlings, how many and what proportions of planted fingerlings survive, what migratory habits they acquire and how soon, and similar questions of interest to those propagating fish.

Minnows in Milk Prove

Case of Watering Supply

Paris, M. Boudant, a dairy owner at Conde-sur-Noireau, near Caen, in an indisputable manner recently caught a farmer who sells milk to him watering his product.

In one of the cans delivered to him M. Boudant found two small minnows swimming in the milk.

Mme. Clementine Hamel, owner of the farm that supplied the milk, was obliged when summoned by police to admit that in some way a portion of the brook flowing through her property had been introduced into the milk can.

German Rulers of England

The man who was said to have ruled England, but did not speak English was George I. He was not the nearest heir to the throne, but succeeded by an act of parliament. He was duke of Brunswick, elector of Hanover. His son, George II, spoke only very broken English. George III was the first of the line to be born on English soil.

Inside Information

To get iron rust stains from an enameled sink, bleach them with a solution of oxalic acid. Repeat until the stain disappears, then rinse thoroughly.

When first teaching a little boy to dress and undress himself, it is a good plan to make all his trousers exactly alike so that he will always find the buttons and buttonholes in the same position.

Apple betty and others made with fruit are usually popular with the family and are easy to prepare. Mix soft bread crumbs from the center of the loaf with enough melted butter to moisten, and place them in alternate layers with fruit, spices and sugar in a baking dish. Serve hot or cold, with or without cream or hard sauce or custard. Apricots, prunes, and in season, rhubarb, make especially good "betties."

Biscuit dough is useful in many ways other than for hot bread. Fruit shortcakes of fresh or stewed fruits, chicken shortcake, crust for meat pie or fruit cobbler, suggest some of these uses. Sweetened and spiced, with raisins or nuts or both added, biscuit dough is transformed into tea cakes. Pinwheel buns are made by sprinkling the surface of the rolled dough with sugar, cinnamon, nuts, and raisins, and then rolling it up, to be cut across like jelly roll. Sprinkle the tops of the pinwheels with more granulated sugar and bake.

To make jellied prunes, first cook the prunes as usual. Wash half a pound of plump prunes and soak them overnight in water to cover. Simmer until tender in the same water. Remove the stones and chop or cut the fruit very fine. Soak 2 tablespoons or one envelope of gelatin in ½ cup of cold water. Add 2 cups boiling water and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Add 1 cup of sugar, ¼ cup of lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, and the cooked, chopped prunes. Stir until well blended. Chill, stirring occasionally, until the fruit is well mixed. When set, serve with whipped cream. The pulp of one orange may be added if desired.

Roman Soldier's Weapon

The Roman gladius was generally a straight two-edged blade, rather broad and of nearly equal width from hilt to blade. In a sketch which was examined the hilt of the gladius extended about five inches above the waistline of the Roman soldier, and the blade extended almost to the knee.

Other affairs were small dinner and supper parties.

Mrs. H. A. Bauman who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Walter Woodson and family of Salisbury, N. C., reports that they had 17 inches of snow there the latter part of December. That is more than we have had here at any one time this season, and is an almost unknown incident in that state. Cars were unable to travel thru the snow because of having no tire chains and it was almost impossible to find a dealer who carried them.

Monday morning at about 10:30 o'clock the home of Thomas Wakeley located one-half mile east of the Feldhauser school burned to the ground. The family consisting of Mrs. Wakeley and seven children escaped with just the clothing they had on them at the time. Mr. Wakeley was away from home at the time and when the family discovered the fire, all of the upstairs was ablaze. The oldest girl Harriet, 14, with much presence of mind removed her mother, who has been an invalid for the past year and her six little brothers and sisters to safety. Then she went back to the house and telephoned for help, but before her father or anyone else came there was no chance to save anything. Neighbors and friends got busy as soon as possible and solicited the help of others and so have the family pretty well outfitted in clothing as well as household things by now and Nels Corwin offered them his hunting cabin nearby where they will remain until spring, when Mr. Wakeley will rebuild his home. The family have the sympathy of the community in their misfortune.

GRAYLING WINS FROM ROSCOMMON AND ST. MARYS

up the points until it was anything but interesting.
The Roscommon first team acquired a total of five field goals and a gift toss for eleven points. Daugherty, former local player, accounted for five of them. This game too was nothing to be excited about.
The following players appeared wearing the colors of Grayling during the three games: Sorenson, Sherman, Akors, LaGrow, Dawson, Swanson, Pankow, Harrison, Garver, Malloy, Schmidt, Gathro, Knibbs, Sheehy, SanCartier, Kraus, H. Winterlee, Annis, Kangas, E. Winterlee, Foley, Funck, Neal, and Sammons.

The following was taken from the West Branch Herald:

Josh Missed the Grayling Game
Here I am again, by special request, Not a gol darned button on my coat or vest. So darned puffed up, they couldn't stand the shock. An I'm struttin' around like a young peacock. Braggin' with me ain't a natural fallin'. But I jest got to tell you how our team beat Graylin'. Yes sree! they wuz beat—on their own home floor. And I jest got a notion they'll be feelin' rather sore.

Both me and paw—we had to miss the game, I tell you, by jinks, that we thought it was a shame. But the price of cream is so gol darned low, That we couldn't buy the gas to make the old flivver go.

Felt pretty blue, guess me and paw, Missed the best game of basketball our town ever saw. There wuz no derved use of settin' up late, So we crawled off to bed 'bout half past eight. Along about one I heard a dreadful clatter, And I hurried down stairs to see what was the matter; Horns was a blowin', and I heard a big shout, And people wuz a yellin' like all git out. I knew that the racket wuz a comin' from town, So I pulled on my clothes and I hiked right down. Don't know, by gosh, how it all came about, But I got my pants on wrong side out.

When I got to town now what should I meet, But a big bunch of cars a tearin' down the street—A henkin' and a roarin' and a usin' up gas, I got plump in front of one and wouldn't let it pass. And then I sez right out, "See here This ain't the Fourth and it ain't New Year!" I'm a peaceable feller and my name is Josh, But you jest got to tell me what this means, by gosh."

The guy said, "Shucks!" ain't you heard the news. Our boys played Grayling' and they didn't lose. Both our teams won on the Grayling floor, Climb in by my girl and I'll tell you some more. I climbed in the car and I sat right down. By the prettiest dame in the whole dern town. Then the feller said, "Josh, I'm glad that you came. Fer I'm achin' to tell about a dern good game."

I shut my eyes tight, an' I thought I was in heaven. When he said we'd won the game eighteen to eleven. And the second team won, 'twas plain to be seen, 'Cause Graylin' scored seven and them seventeen. I've got a hunch, and I bet I got it right. Last year's yell leader wuzen't yellin' that night. I heard that the band was a playin' like fun, An' with last year's leader, why Graylin' might have won.

Somethin' else he told me that hit me jest right, St. Joe beat Standsish that very same night. Beat 'em good and hard by a great big score. An' when I heard that I puffed up some more. I got so darned excited 'fore he finished by heck, That I grabbed that fellow's girl right plumb 'round the neck. Was pretty darned embarrassed, and as soon as I could talk, I told the guy a drivin' "that I guessed I'd rather walk."

When I got hum I woke up paw, When he heard the news he woke up maw. And before we got through a talkin' 'bout the scores, It was time to get busy doin' the mornin' chores. But paw says if it takes his last cent, He's goin' to take ma to the tournament. And if I can find a fellow who's willin' to treat, He and me will ride in the rumble seat.

The Log Office Says

Interesting bits of news and comment about Northeastern Michigan gathered by the E. M. T. A.

Dollars spent by tourists and resorters in East Michigan have caused a consistent growth of business during July and August in the Bay City department store of H. G. Wendland & Co., its owner, H. G. Wendland, stated recently.

"Our summer trade has been steadily on the increase," he said, "and I can account for this gain mainly by the fact that some of the thousands of dollars spent yearly by visitors in this section find their way directly and indirectly into my store."

It is obvious, Mr. Wendland pointed out, that the tourists must purchase the necessities of life from day to day as well as the luxuries that catch their eye, and those persons selling to them are more able and ready to buy from others in turn. Tourist business works indirectly for the benefit of all as much as it does directly.

"I am heartily in sympathy with any drive to bring more people into Michigan," declared Mr. Wendland, "because in spending what they have to spend they help my business and every business. It is a healthy source of revenue for the state that must not be neglected."

Marston, Inventor of Puzzle

T. F. Marston, inventor of the new puzzle which has been added to the name of the secretary-treasurer of the E.M.T.A. and the secretary-manager of the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau.

And it all centers around a jig-saw puzzle of Lower Michigan which appeared on the market recently, being sent out from the Log Office in Bay City. The joke in the whole thing is that the inventor thought any bright person familiar with Michigan's rivers, counties and towns could properly place the pieces in less than two hours—and it actually took him four by the clock. So it isn't to be wondered at that others who have attempted it, even those who thought themselves well versed in the geography, agricultural and physical attributes of Lower Michigan.

Adoption of a resolution by the Michigan State Association of Supervisors endorsing establishment of a sanatorium in Northern Michigan, together with further championing of the movement for the institution by Speaker of the House Fred Ming were outstanding developments of the past week in the campaign for a tuberculosis hospital to serve the northern part of the Lower Peninsula.

The Supervisors' Association's resolution followed upon talks given at the group's Wednesday morning session by Dr. G. L. Leslie, medical director of Howell State Sanatorium, and T. J. Werle, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. Leslie stated that facilities at the State Sanatorium, although vastly improved over three years ago, are still entirely inadequate for the number of patients seeking care. Pointing out that 250 deaths from tuberculosis occur annually in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula, he said that a sanatorium of between 250 and 500 beds is needed to properly serve this area.

Emphasis was placed by Mr. Werle upon the fact that Michigan, with an estimated 40,000 active cases of tuberculosis, is greatly in need of more sanatorium beds. Construction of a state sanatorium to take care of the tuberculosis of northern Michigan was seen as the state's most pressing need at the present time.

igan, have met with varying success in the working of this interesting map-puzzle.

"The puzzle is much more than an evening's amusement," said Inventor Marston. "It is decidedly of an educational nature. One must really know Michigan in order to place the pieces together correctly and form the completed map. Up to date four hours is par."

Here are some of the comments made by citizens of Michigan who have tried their hand at it:

R. G. Schreck, National Forest Supervisor: "Caused no end of confusion in our family."

Al Weber, editor Cheboygan Observer: "Took my wife and me five or six hours on the darned thing."

Marius Hanson, Grayling: "It is a breeder of headaches, takes more than four hours and I thought I knew Michigan pretty well."

Senator Ben Carpenter: "Began at 9 a. m. and wasn't nearly finished by noon, and my wife didn't like it."

C. M. Bullard, Flint, says that it takes 3 1/2 hours, but doesn't say whether he means with the key or without.

Ed. Leenhouts, Gen'l. Agent of New York Central Railroad, Chicago, who thinks he knows the map of Michigan, couldn't finish the puzzle in two evenings, even with both his boys helping. He alibis by saying the pesky thing wouldn't stay together after he had it placed.

Hon. A. C. Carton, Lansing: "If I don't succeed ere long, I shall send the puzzle to a friend of mine permanently located in Pontiac."

Hugh J. Gray, secretary Michigan Tourist & Resort Association, Grand Rapids: "My stenographer put it together in twenty minutes."

To which last comment, Mr. Marston remarks: "No wonder West Michigan advertises with a secretary that can tell Michigan whoppers."

SENTIMENT IN CAPITOL FAVORABLE TO NORTHERN SANATORIUM MEASURE

NEWS & COMMENTS FROM WASHINGTON

(By Congressman Roy O. Woodruff, Tenth Michigan District.)

Perhaps the most sensational development of the week was the apology by Secretary of State Stimson to Premier Mussolini, of Italy, for the remarks of General Smedley D. Butler of the Marine Corps, who, in a speech stated that the Italian Premier had run over a child and kept on going with the remark, "What is one life in the affairs of a nation," or words to that effect. General Butler is to be court-martialed for the speech, the latest of many which have caused the fiery General difficulties in the past. General Butler is the only holder of two Congressional Medals, and also possesses a number of other distinguished service medals and citations. The present episode may easily terminate abruptly the General's military career.

Hearings before the Ways and Means Committee of the House were held this week on a bill to advance the date of restrictions against imports suspected of having been produced by prison or forced labor. Other hearings are to be held soon on another bill to place an embargo on Russian goods. Several fundamental questions have been uncovered by the hearings. One is how the United States is to disprove any assertion of the Russians that their goods are not convict-produced, since this Government can send no agents into Russia to investigate.

We have no diplomatic relations with the Soviets. Another question is how we are to prevent the Russians dealing with foreign nations, and those other nations using cheap Russian products for fabrication of materials which would be shipped into America. Another question is whether American firms now doing business with Russia would simply transfer the manufacture of materials now carried on in this country to foreign branch plants and continue the business. Still another problem would be how to prevent American money being loaned foreign governments to finance credits to Russia, thus forcing American capital to finance undertakings profitable to foreign manufacturers while depriving the working people now employed in the manufacture of goods going to Soviet Russia of the labor. Our imports from Russia last year were about $22,000,000 and our exports—principally machinery and manufactured goods, amounted to $11,000,000.

Controversy over the Wickersham Commission Report has again been overshadowed by the latest developments in the Red Cross-Senate controversy. The struggle over whether the Congress shall vote $25,000,000 to be used for food for starving people to be administered by the Red Cross has been greatly intensified by the declaration of the Red Cross officials that because of the fact that they now have available three times the amount of money necessary to meet the present emergency, they will refuse to accept or to administer the fund if it is voted by the Congress. The House has, under the circumstances, very properly refused to concur in the Senate action and a deadlock may result. A special session may ensue if the Senate does not cease playing politics with this very important question.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon again is aggressively opposing payments of the soldier bonus in cash at this time. He asserts that a cash advance would have a serious effect on the sale of federal bonds and might force abandonment of building projects. There is nothing new about Secretary Mellon's opposition to every phase of bonus for soldiers. He is frankly opposed to all forms of bonus and has as frankly fought them. But the question is before Congress and is one of the several which may force an extra session, because a great number of the members of Congress do not see eye to eye with Mr. Mellon on this question by any manner of means.

Unemployment insurance, old age pensions, or both, will come sooner than most of us realize, according to many students of the present condition of affairs. It is becoming rapidly apparent that such conditions as now exist in this country, as well as throughout the world, must be avoided in future. There is great diversity of opinion as to the best method of setting up the agencies adequate to deal with future emergencies, but nearly everyone agrees that a solution of the problem must be found.

Miners Don Iron Hats as Protection From Rocks

Hazleton, Pa.—Miners in this region are wearing helmets so that falling rock and slate will not bend their skulls.

The Reading company is selling iron hats, reminiscent of the World War headgear, for $1.75, and the miners are buying them up. They also are wearing iron-tipped shoes, so that loose slag will not injure their feet. It is believed that eventually the idea of wearing armor will save the miners from losing many working days and that every man will be outfitted with protective clothes.

Safety lamps, battery-operated detonators for blasts, and other devices for eliminating some of the many mining hazards, have come to the coal regions in the past and are now in general use throughout the region.

Marble Totem Poles Now Carved for Alaskans

Wrangell, Alaska.—Indian totems for centuries were carved from cedar trees, but with prosperity evident all around several tribes are employing white men with electric tools to cut such historical data in marble and granite.

By the use of the harder material and finer tools modern stone workers are able to write the tribal histories in one-tenth the space utilized by the old native carvers.

These miniature marble totems are for use only in tribal burial places.

Eldorado School Notes

We received sixteen new books for our school library and enjoy them very much.

We are making plans for a Valentine party at school to which we will invite our mothers.

Lewis and Theodore Ireland have been absent from school because of chicken pox.

At the beginning of this semester the first grade was promoted to second and the second to third.

We are proud of our first aid kit which we received this week as a reward for selling 500 Christmas seals.

We have hot lunches at noon which we greatly appreciate.

Some of us were excused part of the day Friday because we had been neither absent or tardy for a month.

We have made, for the first time, a slide in the woods and find dodging trees safer sport than sliding in the road.

A Live BABY To Be Sold at AUCTION

Bid for the Baby With Red Arrow Money

Who will become the proud owner of the Baby?

The baby is not an orphan and we have full permission to dispose of it, providing it goes to some good family of the city or community. No adoption papers will be necessary as we have arranged to give legal title to the baby.

If you know of some reputable family in need of a nice healthy baby, tell them about this big Red Arrow feature, or buy the baby and present it to them.

The baby, with a nurse in charge, will appear at the next Red Arrow Auction on FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27

The baby will be sold in open bidding at the close of the regular Red Arrow auction.

The sale of the baby is not contrary to the United States constitution, nor in opposition to the high principles of your humane society. What is the joke?

There'll Be Fun at This Auction —BE THERE!

Announcement will be made next week of an interesting contest in connection with the live baby auction. Watch for it!

The merchandise to be sold at the next auction is now on display at the Red Arrow places. See this merchandise, then place your bid. You may raise the bid at a later date, if you care to do so.

23 NEW FORD BODY TYPES

Twenty-three new body types, designed to meet the specialized needs of various classes of commercial transportation, have been added to the standard line of Ford trucks and light delivery cars, the Ford Motor Company announced.

Several of the new trucks and commercial cars already are in production. The others will be placed on a production basis within the next two months.

The addition of the score of new body types, ranging from a smart town car delivery for the use of exclusive shops to police patrols and coal and coke trucks, was made in accordance with the Ford Motor Company's policy of offering a complete line of commercial vehicles to meet all sorts of transportation requirements. There are now more than fifty Ford commercial body types available on the Model A and Model AA chassis. Furthermore the truck chassis may be had in either 131 1/2 inch wheelbase or 157 inch wheelbase, with or without dual rear wheels, and with a choice of gear ratios.

Included in the new offerings mounted on the Model AA 131 1/2 inch truck chassis are four coal and coke bodies, two garbage bodies, ice body, standard police patrol, deluxe police patrol, panel body, ambulance, funeral coach, service car for garages, stock rack body, express truck with or without canopy top, de luxe delivery, and heavy duty express. On the 157-inch Model AA wheelbase there are a stock rack body, panel body and express body with or without canopy top.

Three of the new Fords are mounted on the Model A passenger car chassis. They are the town car delivery, drop floor panel and special delivery (natural wood).

Tons of Owls
Owls have four toes on each foot, but unlike most other birds they do not perch with three toes in front and one behind. When an owl sits on a perch two toes are placed forward, the third one being turned backward. The fourth or hind toe is very small.
